

Construction sparks get $580M Prairiefire mixed-use project going

Austin Alonzo

Reporter- Kansas City Business Journal

Email | Twitter | Construction coverage | Engineering coverage

Crews recently sparked construction of Prairiefire, a $580 million mixed-use development in Overland Park.

Although the project has taken years to get to this point and construction will continue into 2017, architects promise the end result will be a development that looks and feels different from anything in this market and far beyond.

Matt Masilionis, principal of Kansas City-based Rees Masilionis Turley Architecture LLC, said the firm went through 150 to 200 versions of master plans for the Prairiefire project during the six-and-a-half years between the concept's birth and when developers finalized financing.

Masilionis, whose firm is the executive architect ...

Austin reports about construction, transportation, engineering and architecture.